Consolidation of Parent-Teachers Clubs

On Friday afternoon last week there was a joint meeting of the two Parent-Teacher organizations of Comanche at the Grammar School building the object of which was both pleasure and business. The guests gathered in the hall on the first floor of the building, which had been decorated previously in wild flowers, and were served Punch by Mrs. G. W. Dingus and Mrs. Sanders from a table decorated in yellow wildflowers and purple thistles. A similarly decorated table across the hall was presided over by Mrs. Victor Bond and Mrs. Cyril Greene under whose direction new members registered to the number of about forty.

The first part of the program planned for the evening was carried out here, and consisted of a game of "Beans". Each guest on arrival had been furnished with a paper bag of white beans, and after all present had been chosen by Mrs. J. I. Mayes for the West Ward, and Mrs. C. R. M. Dudley for the east ward leaders of the respective sides, the game began, each individual being charged with the duty of enticing some opponent into forfeiting a bean as a penalty for failing to answer "thank you" to whatever should be addressed to her. "Her" is said advisedly, because this parents organization is observed to be most one-sided—even reminiscent of the era of the matra-archal age the feminists prate of—so much so that the only five members of the masculine sex were present, and one of those was unmarried.

Finally, when everybody had gotten so well disciplined that it was plain to be seen the last possible bean had been forfeited, the game was announced concluded and inquiry as to who had the greatest number of beans instituted. Miss Maynette Jennings won with thirty-six, and was overwhelmed by the magnificent gift of a dozen bags of beans, "to amuse her children on rainy days at school."

Following the close of this game, the guests were directed to betake themselves to the Auditorium, where the program was to be concluded with an experience meeting as to educational conditions encountered during their youthful days by some dozen or so especially selected victims. These were asked to occupy the front seat, and when the Presiding officer, Mrs. E. E. Anthony, President of the West Ward organization, had asked Mr. Layne to open the meeting with a prayer and he had complied, Mrs. Waring was given charge of the program, as previously planned.

Mrs. Fields was asked first to detail to the audience her experiences as a student, Mrs. Waring suggested she very likely had often had to flee from the log school house from approaching Indians. Mrs. Fields admitted the log school house, but denied the refugee charge, the Indians having abandoned the effort to drive the white man back before her day, she said. The Log House, with two doors and no windows, Mrs. Fields described, and the split logs which served for desks. There were no black boards, and the children used slates on which copy was set by the teacher. Those were not, however, days of discomfort or unhappiness she said. Children liked to go to school, and what she wanted explained to her was why children today with all the improvements in equipment don't like school. It is a question which needs to be answered, and the answer might deeply affect the school of tomorrow if we could answer it truly.

Mrs. T. O. Moore was the next speaker, and her early school days in a private school in Kentucky were less primitive in surroundings than was the case closer to the frontier. Even so, however, there was a four mile walk to school, which Mrs. Moore insisted was actually accomplished "on foot" and not a mule-back as Mrs. Waring tried to get her to admit the distance had been covered. At the age of eight Mrs. Moore was brought to Texas, and the remainder of her education was obtained at Chappel Hill where she and others rode horse-back six miles she said—still denying the mule episode which the conductor humorously tried to fasten on her.

Mrs. John McGuire gave a very explicit description of the early school building and equipment—or lack of it—in the early days in Texas. It is a far cry from our handsome school buildings with their wealth of equipment to the log room, with no windows, dirt floors, puncheon seats and no black boards of those days; yet the excellent results of those primitive instrumentalities makes us wonder if we have not perhaps missed the point, in seeking for what is really the chief necessity of the effective school. "By their fruits ye shall know them," and those schools bore good fruit we know. These women are the proof. When this generation is their age, will our schools of today be as well vouchered for?

Mrs. Jeff Green described the costume of the school girl of her day, and when asked if the girls wore high heeled shoes and Georgette waists, said her father made her "high heeled" shoes from leather he had tanned himself, and her mother spun the thread for the cloth she wove by hand for the waists she wore to school—which were mistily long sleeved gingham aprons. Calico cost fifty cents a yard, and a calico waist was a luxury. The girls wore slat sunbonnets, she said, but were stylish in respect to the manner of hair dressing, which ran to bobbed locks as now, though the bobbing was for time-saving, and not for an aid to beauty or license. The slat sunbonnets, however, were worn under a stern decree and gloves also; and the consequence was button looking skin than the girls have now, and whiter, softer hands. The stockings girls wore to school, Mrs. Green said, bore no resemblance to the thin silk ones school girls affect now in defiance of all laws of good taste; for these girls of her youth knitted the stockings they wore to school—and the ones they wore to church also, doubtless.

Miss Lizzie Ford's first school days were passed in the city of London, and both surroundings and methods, she said, methods being the subject she was asked to speak on, were far less primitive than in America at that time. After coming to America her family settled first in "Old Washington" on the Brazos where the settlement was an old one for Texas and both teachers and equipment much ahead of many parts of the state. The first real hardships educationally, Miss Lizzie said, were encountered in Comanche after she came here and began teaching. She talked most interestingly of her own methods in teaching and disciplining her pupils, and told several interesting incidents of the childhood of pupils of those days who are now mothers of families, one of them concerning Lillie Burks, (Mrs. J. I. Mays), who waited one day that her "fingers just wouldn't look good." Miss Lizzie evidently was one who kept always in the van of progress, and adopted whatever appeared that looked good; and what didn't "appear" in the way of effective methods, she thought of herself. That is the mark of the true teacher in all ages; and the lack of the ability to do that can never be overcome by any sort of equipment. Miss Lizzie stressed her own insistence on good conduct and control of her pupils, and admitted that she wasn't too proud to use a well seasoned hickory when occasion seemed to demand it. She referred briefly to the freedom allowed teachers under Pro. Rogers, who expected them to be capable of making and carrying out plans of their own, and trusted them to do so.

Mrs. Kilpatrick paid tribute to the tin dinner pail which sufficed for the children's lunch basket in her day, the Blue Back speller and the McGuffey's Readers which laid a sure foundation for a healthy and correct

The High School contemplates the purchase of a new piano. We know of several schools in the country which are anxious to raise money for libraries or other purposes. Why not get your neighbors interested in paying up their subscriptions to the Chief before December the first, or subscribe before that date if they intend to take the Chief next year and pooling the tickets they can obtain? There is one with each paid up subscription, and all can be held together and presented for your class or your school or your club on December second.

The Chief will contribute a bonus of five per cent for any such organized efforts, which means that whether or not you draw a prize you will get five per cent of all the money you collect for your work, and your chances for winning a prize will double with every subscription you get.

This will cut into our savings on collecting and soliciting but we are willing to contribute that much to any organization or community which is working for the common good.

A. G. ADAMS FOR DIRECTOR

I see the name of our friend A. G. Adams, president of the First Guaranty State Bank of Jacksonville, Texas, will be submitted as a candidate for election as director of the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas, Texas, as representative of class 3 banks, in lieu of B. A. McKinney, whose term expires on December 31, 1922, and who will not stand for re-election as director.

Mr. Adams' long and varied experience as a country banker, both state and national, in Texas and Oklahoma, well qualifies him as representative of banks in class 3.

He began his banking experience with the First National Bank of Marshall, Texas, and was with it for two or more years.

He was then elected assistant cashier of the First National Bank of Comanche, Texas, serving in that capacity for two years.

He then organized and was cashier and president of the First National Bank of Jacksonville, Texas, and was with it for twelve years.

He was then elected president of the First National Bank of Ada, Oklahoma, and was with it for five years, which position carried with it directorial supervision of several Oklahoma banks, controlled by Messrs. Phillips and Norris of Ada, Okla.

For the past six years he has been president of the First Guaranty State Bank of Jacksonville, Texas.

He has never been very much in the limelight in Texas or Oklahoma in banking, but it regarded as a careful,

Among the out of town attorneys in Comanche this week, for court we noted Mr. Vickers, of Lubbock, A. E. Hampton, of De Leon, Arthur Eldson of Hamilton, Glover Johnson of Ft. Worth, Judge Wilkinson of Brownwood, and Gib Callaway of Eastland.

conservative country banker, which well qualifies him for the position in question. E. E. ANTHONY.

Argument East Texas has never had a representative on the Federal Reserve Board, with the possible exception of ex-Commissioner Ed Hall of Bryan, who served only a short time.

The state banks are entitled to, and have never had, representation on the board.

THE WAY OUT

Lord Grey, Governor General of Canada, left this last message to his people: "There is a real way out of all this mess. It is Christ's way. There is nothing that can help humanity, I am sure, except love. Love is the way out and the way up."

St. Paul left this message: "If I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, but have not love, I am become sounding brass or a clanging cymbal."

IT IS THE AMBITION OF THE CENTRAL CHRISTIAN CHURCH TO ASSIST YOU TO SUBSTITUTE LOVE FOR DOGMA AND DOCTRINE, AND TO LEAD YOU TO A BIGGER, FULLER, BROADER VIEW OF THE CHRIST AND HIS TEACHING.

We crave your co-operation and bid you welcome to our services.

MRS. J. H. WOMBLE PASSES AWAY

The Grim Reaper, following in the wake of the scourge known as Dengue has again visited Comanche, cutting down in the midst of activity one who had every reason to expect that she would be given many more years of active service and pleasant companionship with her family.

Mrs. J. H. Womble, born Dena Scott, passed away at her home in Comanche on Wednesday afternoon, October 18 following a week's illness which was a relapse from an attack of Dengue fever suffered some two weeks ago. Mrs. Womble was born January 14, 1870, in Leon County, Texas. She was married in 1876 to J. H. Womble and her married life has been spent in or near Comanche County, Carlton, Gustine, Lamkin, and Comanche. About five years ago the family moved here and here they have resided since that time.

She is survived by her husband, J. H. Womble, and six children all but one, of whom were with her when the end came. One daughter, Mrs. E. R. Gibson, of Throckmorton, was unable on account of illness to come. The children present are: Goldie and Prentiss, the two sons, and four daughters, Mrs. Jimpz Leech, and Mrs. Armstrong Cox of Comanche, and Mrs. H. A. Martin, of Red Springs. Besides her husband and children, Mrs. Womble leaves three brothers, and four sisters to mourn her loss. They are G. M. Scott of Lamkin, Rev. W. M. Scott of Brownwood and Rev. J. C. Scott of Seymour; Mrs. Silas Boyd Mrs. Frank McClellan and Mrs. John Allen of Gustine, and Mrs. Carl Daniel of Valley Mills.

Mrs. Womble had been a devoted member of the Baptist Church since the age of thirteen. The funeral was from the First Baptist Church of this place, interment at Oakwood Cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. Forrest Maddox.

May the bereaved ones find comfort in their religion, and strength from the Source of all Life to bear their loss.

INDIANS DEFEAT HAMILTON HIGH

Visitors Draw First Blood but Unable to Hold Indians Come Back

In a game filled with thrill and marked at times by demonic playing the Comanche Indians on Friday the 13th, defeated Hamilton High School on the local grounds by a score of 13 to 6.

Hamilton scored on two forward passes one of which was an intercepted pass and on which the ball was carried to the five yard line where after two unsuccessful efforts it was sent across on a short pass.

Comanche's two markers came as a result of end runs and line plays, Mason failing in one instance to kick goal.

During the first quarter gains were about equal on the part of the Indians and the visitors, neither side being able to make consistent advance. Early in the second quarter Hamilton intercepted an attempted pass on the part of Comanche and after a sensational run the ball was advanced to the five yard line and the visitors made their only score, failing to kick goal.

Following the score on the part of Hamilton, the locals stiffened and advanced the ball to Hamilton's goal when time was called just in time to prevent Comanche from scoring.

Receiving the ball in the third quarter Comanche kept the ball in their possession until they had scored. Hamilton elected to receive and on their second effort to advance the ball an attempted pass was intercepted and again the Indians steadily moved forward until the second touchdown had been made.

During the remainder of the game Hamilton was never able to advance the ball except by punts and the locals kept the ball well in the visitors territory during the remainder of the game.

The Hamilton bunch proved good fighters and never slackened their efforts even in the face of defeat and Comanche fans cannot but admit the work of Coach Sterling Holloway of Hamilton in developing the excellent team that he has built up out of wholly inexperienced men and which would be a credit to any Coach in High School circles.

SIGNS OF COLD WEATHER.

Pittsburg, Oct. 20.—It's going to be a mighty cold winter if the animals in Western Pennsylvania are not nature faking.

Here in Allegheny County cows and horses have taken on a very heavy winter coat. This is a sure sign that there is going to be a long stretch of exceedingly cold weather, old-timers who watch the seasons say.

Even more unusual is the old-fashioned sign of zero temperature. Pullets have moulted. Plumage provided for the first of the year has been dropped and rough feathers have appeared. Even the collie dogs on farms hereabouts have grown very heavy shaggy coats.—Ex.

LOMETA FARMER AGREES WITH THEORY THAT LATE PLANTING DAMAGES BOLL-WEEVIL MOST

Mr. W. A. McMillan of Lometa is in agreement with a well-known farmer who advanced the theory in the Dallas News recently that late planting and timely cultivation did more to destroy the boll weevil than early planting. Regarding this, the Lometa Reporter says:

Mr. McMillan has found the same to be true in Comanchas county. This year, as far as it has been, Mr. McMillan has some cotton that is turning out one-half bale to the acre and none of the crop less than one-fourth. This, too, alongside of people who are not making more than one-tenth of a bale. He says that cotton planted in May will grow faster and put on squares so rapidly that the boll weevil cannot possibly get it all before maturity like they can if the crop is planted in March and allowed to grow slowly during the early spring—just fast enough for the weevils to operate on every square as it appears. Mr. McMillan's advice is plant late, after the ground is warm, put rows a little wider apart and run them when possible east and west. This way, the hot afternoon sun will shine down the middle and not allow the pests a thick shade to work in, as they would have if the rows ran north and south. The fact that Mr. McMillan is harvesting more cotton per acre than other folks would indicate that he knows what he is talking about.

Just a Breath of Winter

A Gentle Reminder of What We May Expect Soon--

THE RAINS With the norther following of this week rudely reminds us that we can not reasonably expect a long continuance of the warm open weather we have enjoyed during the last few weeks—hence it would be well to look to your heating devices—a new stove, perhaps, will be necessary—an open grate, etc. We would remind you that we are well prepared to supply you with both heating and cook stoves in any styles—wood or coal burners. Heaters range from the inexpensive Air Tight affairs to the most elaborate upright coal burners and cooks from the small cast iron up to the magnificent steel range, and best of all they are made by Bridge Beach Co.

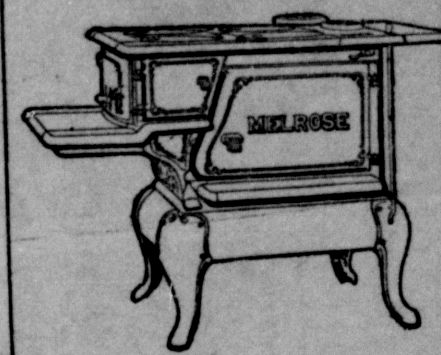

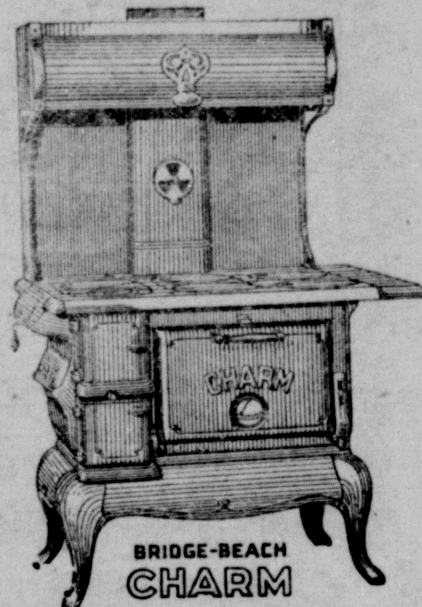

85 SUCCESSFUL YEARS OF STOVE BUILDING

More than three-quarters of a century of exclusive stove making is a record to be proud of—and such is the record of Bridge Black Company. Bridge Beach stoves and ranges are second to none in service, economical in operation, and above all, in durability—no better stove could possibly be made.

For more than twenty years in Comanche we have sold these quality stoves—each month of each of these many years, and have yet to hear of one single complaint.

We are straight car load buyers, and of course are in position to make lowest prices. Also selling coal grates for fire places, dog irons, stove boards, shovels, coal scuttles, tongs and hundreds of other useful household necessities.

Comanche, Texas

DEATH OF JOSEPH W. DABNEY.

Joseph W. Dabney, for many years a citizen of Comanche county, died on October 3rd at the home of his son, H. G. Dabney, in Millsap, Parker County, Texas. Mr. Dabney was born in Hopkinsville, Kentucky on December 27, 1845, and he was therefore just a few months short of his seventy-seventh birthday when the end came.

He was a veteran of the Civil War, having entered the Confederate Army at the age of seventeen and served during the last two years of that bloody conflict as a member of Co. B, 8th Kentucky Cavalry, under Gen. N. B. Forrest. He was in thirty-seven battles without ever receiving a wound.

After the war, Mr. Dabney moved to Virginia where he had relatives and where he engaged in the mercantile business for some years. In the autumn of 1890—exactly forty-two years ago—he came with his family to Texas and settled in Comanche county 8 miles southwest of the town of Comanche in what is known as Cox's Gap. Here he remained as long as he remained in the county, becoming one of the most successful stock raisers and farmers in this section, and rearing to manhood and womanhood a family of sons and daughters who have become an honor to him and to the great name they bear. In 1903 he moved to Thorsen Springs, Texas, and in 1913 to Millsap, Parker County, Texas, where he lived with his youngest son, H. G. Dabney until death.

Mr. Dabney was a man of learning, having had the advantages of a classical education in his youth, when college training invariably implied the study of the classics. He was well versed in French as well as Latin and Greek, and through well selected newspapers and magazines he kept himself and his family "up with the times" though living on the frontier. Sometimes the number of these ran into the dozens, but he is said rarely to have missed reading a page of one.

During the twenty-three years of his residence in Comanche County, Mr. Dabney naturally became well known to all the residents of the section around him, and in his later years he was known familiarly as "Uncle Joe," the usual title of esteem and affection of our western country. He leaves seven children as follows: J. W. Dabney, Jr., of Blanket, Texas; A. B. Dabney, Zephyr, Texas; Mrs. Bert Whitehead, of Douglas, Ariz.; Rev. W. S. Dabney, Archer City; Mrs. H. V. Justice, Weatherford, Texas; H. G. Dabney, Millsap, Texas; and Mrs. J. E. Nisbett, Mineral Wells. Mr. Dabney was a life-long member of the Christian Church. He was buried at Millsap, on October 4th, all of his children being present except the daughter who lives in Arizona.

PEDDY BASES PLEA ON BILL OF RIGHTS

Taylor, Oct. 4.—In his speeches George E. B. Peady, candidate for the Senate has continually stressed the point that his platform was the of rights and the constitution. He has especially stressed those clauses dealing with liberty and prosperity and freedom in religious worship.

No man should be barred from holding office on account of his religious belief, but a secret oath-bound political organization was seeking to take away the liberties guaranteed by the bill of rights.

Seeks to Save Party

On this question he has said: "The issue is presented now and the people of Texas must face it. Love of country and love of free government is contesting with the party pledge. Will the people of Texas uphold the law and constitution, or will they defy the law and disregard the constitution in order to support a so-called Democratic nominee? Will they sacrifice principle in order to vote for a man who has been palmed off on the Democratic party by a separate and distinct political organization working secretly and treacherously within the party? It is being said that I am a welcher, that I am seeking to destroy the Democratic party. I am seeking to save it from those who come as wolves in sheep's clothing, claiming to be Democrats while they are secretly undertaking to destroy the party by destroying the principles that have made the party great. If the party dies it will not die at the hands of those who fight to preserve the principles which are its life blood, but rather will it die at the hands of those who, while they claim party fealty, are bleeding the party to death by the destruction of its principles. There is one broad principle which should govern every citizen when he goes to the ballot box in November, and that is: Vote for that which his conscience tells him is right."

Mrs. Seth B. Holman was a charming hostess on Tuesday afternoon to the Bridge Club members. After the usual round of games, it was found that Mrs. Ben Allen held high score and Mrs. Howard low score.

A profusion of flowers and greenery everywhere added beauty to the gay scene. A two course luncheon was served to the following members and Miss Howard: Mesdames Price, Collins, Herbst, Mercer, McLean, Monday, Ferguson, Barber, Skelton, Fox, Allen, Mothershead, Acker, and Miss Wilson—Herford Brand.

Mrs. H. H. Gibbs entertained with a bridge party on Thursday afternoon. The room was made attractive with vases and baskets of red roses. In the bridge games, Mrs. Chas. Gray made high score and received a strain of beads, while Mrs. Geo. Simmons was consoled with a rose bar pin. Refreshments of fruit salad, bread and butter sandwiches, colonial punch, sugared almonds and mints were served to Mesdames O. W. Hamilton, James D. Slack, John Chilton, Henry Moore, Walter Montgomery, Lionel Slider, Armstrong Cox, Chas. Gray, Geo. Simmons, Aubrey Findley, Jack Moore, W. D. Lane, Tom Moore, Misses Jeffie Thomas, Malcolm Shelton and Mildred Martin of Dublin.

taste in literature. The long walks to school put the children in good trim for work, she said, and the home made shoes and homespun dresses were not such as to absorb their attention to the neglect of their lessons.

Mrs. Brightman made an effective point when she suggested that probably the fact that discipline was not neglected at home accounted for its taking up less time at school in those days. The children got enough at home to pretty well last them through the day.

The meeting concluded with a short business meeting. Mrs. Arthur Lovelace presenting the following motion, which was adopted with the exception of the withdrawal of Mrs. Anthony's name for President. Mrs. Anthony stating that home duties made it impossible for her accept the responsibility of the office.

We, the east side Parent-Teacher Club wish to put the following motion before both clubs; that we re-organize and form one central club under the following conditions:

1st. That the officers of joint association be elected from the two former clubs as follows:

Mrs. E. E. Anthony as president, 1st vice president from east ward, 2nd vice president from west ward, 3rd vice president from east ward. Secretary and treasurer from grammar school teachers.

2nd. That the present officers of both clubs be retained as an executive committee and as representatives in the council meeting.

3rd. That we use this year, the program prepared by the west ward.

4th. That we have one common treasury.

5th. Dues to be fifty cents per member.

6th. After dues to Mothers Congress is paid, that the remaining fund for this year, be divided as follows: One-half to be given to the grammar school, and one-fourth to each of the ward schools to be used as it sees fit.

The object of this motion for a re-organization is not for financial gain on our part but that we might through one strong central association gain greater inspiration and enthusiasm, and therefore be more able to render greater service to the schools of the town.

If this does not meet with the approval of both clubs we wish to withdraw our motion and remain as heretofore.

After making Mrs. Anthony presiding officer for the afternoon, Mrs. Dingus was unanimously elected President of the consolidated organization and the following officers were placed in nomination by Mrs. Hunter, under a motion to elect them in a body, which was done: Mrs. J. F. Reese, 1st, V. P., Mrs. Jennings, 2nd, V. P., Mrs. Arthur Lovelace 3rd, Mary Reeves, Rec-Sec., Mrs. J. E. Chilton, Cor-Sec., Publicity officer, Hauzeace Cox, Treas.

It was then voted to take up the matter of helping the Grammar School buy some needed equipment, especially a piano. This motion was made by Mrs. Joe Chilton, and included provision for a committee to be appointed by the President, who, however, decided to delay the appointment for further consideration.

The meeting was then adjourned. In a short speech at the beginning of the program in the Auditorium, Mrs. Anthony thanked the Grammar School girls for decorating the hall and the hall downstairs. She especially thanked them for having done this on their own initiative, and might have added that their thoughtfulness in such small matters was an indication of the real worth of the education they were getting.
